WORE HER BRIDAL GOWN AT THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

CAPTAIN AND M RS. OTIS IRONS, Who celebrated their g olden wedding yesterday.

Captain and Mrs. Otis Irons, who were married on New Year's Day, 1851, yesterday celebrated their golden wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jehnson, at No. 3181 Brantner place. Captain Irons is life upon the river, During the Civil War he was captain of the boat J. S. Pringle, which was drafted into the Federal service, and was made postboat after the fall of Vicksburg.

He became a fast friend of General Grant during the the Mississippl.

Mrs. Irons were the same gown that she Mrs. Irons wore the same gown that she did on her wedding day, while receiving the guests yesterday afternoon. Captain Irons wore an old pair of white gloves as his relic of the occasion. Old friends of the couple called in large numbers during the day, but only three relatives of the aged couple were present, these being Mrs. E. C.

couple were present, these being Mrs. E. C. Irons and Mr. and Mrs. Hymers.

Captain Irons spent more than half of his life on the river at a time when steamboating was the only means of communication between the river points, and when the business was the most important in the West. He can tell many interesting stories of the historic personages whom he has carried as passengers, and of the old boats which were famous in their day.

After their marriage in Rochester, N. Y.,

He became a fast friend of General Grant during the war, and recalls many anec-dotes about the General. At the close of the war he served on many of the then fa-mous steamboats. Since 1873 he and his wife have lived in St. Louis.

Three years ago the couple removed to the Memorial Home, on Grand avenue, there to spend the remainder of their days. Both are greatly pleased with the home and are contented with their lot. They have no children.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are old friends of the couple, and decided to hold a reception in honor of their wedding anniversary. Cap-tain Irons made a speech at the anniversary yesterday, in which he called up memories of the past, and wished those present a happy new year and century.

Emery R. Johnson of the Government Commission Here to Address Local Organizations.

Emery R. Johnson of the Nicaraguan Canal Commission, of which Rear Admiral John G. Walker is president, and chairman of the Committee on the Industrial and Commercial Value of the Canal, will address the Engineers' Club to-night and the Merchants' Exchange at 3 o'clock to-mor-row afternoon. Professor Johnson arrived in the city yesterday morning, and while have for several years been using phos-phate of sodium, and especially the glycero here will be the guest of Major J. L. Van Ornum, at No. 420 Delmar boulevard,

The primary object of Professor Johnson's visit to the principal cities of the Central, Gulf and Atlantic Scaboard States is to obprobable commercial importance of the Nicaragua Canal to each section in particular, and to procure statistics regarding indus trial commodities. So far he has been to some twenty-five cities. He will depart for Indianapolis, Ind., to-morrow night.

In his address to the Engineers' Club Professor Johnson will illustrate the proposed isthmian canal routes and will describe al the scientific features of the enterprise from an engineering standpoint. To the member of the Merchants' Exchange he will explain the advantages of the canal to St. Louis in a commercial sense. His appearance on 'change will be in the nature of a hearing, for it will be his purpose to acquire information as much as to give it.

"Next to New Orleans," stated Professor Johnson, 'St. Louis would probably achieve nefit from the canal than any other city in this region. The opening of the canal would result in a greater competition to the east, west and south of this city and the increase in trade would be enormous. This city may expect many advan-tages by strong competition to the Pacific States. The canal would work wonders for St. Louis along the Pacific Coast, not to speak of the expectations in the South and in South America. If the Interstate Commerce Commission would abolish the dis-tinction between carload shipments and less-than-carload shipments St. Louis would become one of the greatest shipping centers

JUDGE WISLIZENUS'S NEW ORDER IN FORCE

Against Professional Bondsmen Begins To-Day in Second District Police Court.

COMPLICATIONS MAY FOLLOW.

Under Present Rules, Police Must Accept a Bond Unless They Know That Surety Offered Is Bad.

The order of Judge Wislizenus of the econd District Police Court, that persons In the habit of going on bonds in the court e allowed to act as surety only for the amount for which they qualify, is likely to ause complications making it difficult to arry out the order, which goes into effect to-day. Most of the bonds, excepting in cases that are appealed, are taken by the police, before the cases get into court. If a bondsman qualifies for a certain amount, the police have no right to refuse to accept him as surety on a bond, in the absence of information as to the number of bonds which he has afready signed. If they did they would run the risk of being charged with oppression in office. The result is that the police accept as a bondsman any one whom they know to be good for the amount of the bonds which he has signed as far as their information goes, and it is expected that they will continue to do so.

To ascertain how many bonds a man is on, it would be necessary, when a bondsman presents himself at a police station to bail out a prisoner, to communicate with all of the police stations in the city, to ascer-tain if the man is on any bonds in the dif-ferent stations. It would also be necessary to ascertain how many appeal bonds he is on, which would have to be learned from the courts. When a case is tried in a police court the bond given to the police expires. A new bond has to be given to the court in case of an appeal. It would be necessary, therefore, for the three police courts of the city to furnish daily to the dif-ferent police stations a list of the cases appealed, and the persons who signed the

When cases come before Judge Wislizenus, and a continuance is asked, he has the right to declare the bonds not good. If he transgresses the law he is liable on his bond in an action for damages, notwithstanding the order of the Court. A case of this sort occurred in the First District Police Court when Judge Peabody occupied the bench. A couple of prisoners were brought before him, clients of the late Attorney Jessessen D. Storts. Remarkable Growth of Her Cotton Manufacturing Industry.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL REFUBLIC SPECIAL Washington, Jan. 1.—Representatives of the cotton manufacturing industries in the Southern States continue to show marvelous growth and prosperity. In South Carolina alone during the past year charters were granted to thirty-one new mills, with as aggregate capital of $4.80,000. The capita of twenty-one of these mills ranged from of twenty-one of these milis ranged from $100,000 to $500,000, fourteen of them being $200,000 and upward. During the year fourteen established mills increased their capitals, the increases running from a milmum of $50,000 to $50,000 and the aggregate being $200,000 and the aggregate mum of $50,000 to $55,000 and the aggregate being $2,945,000, making the total investment in mills the past year $1,750,000.

In 1888 six mills were chartered, with a total capitalization of $500,000; in 1889 the number chartered was eleven, with $3,275,-600 capital. This includes the Olympia at Columbia, with $1,500,000 capital. Tweive mills with a combined capital of $1,45,000 were commissioned in 1900, but have not yet applied for charters. A number of them will begin building in the early spring, as it is certain they will soon quality for charters.

To sum up the cotton manufacturing quality for charters.

To sum up the cotton manufacturing situation in South Carolina in the past twenty-four months, forty-two mills have been chartered and thirty have been enlarged, and the capital thus represented is $12.495.000, a greater amount than was invested in all the enterprises chartered by the State during the preceding aftern years. No other State in the Union has such a record. The achievements the past year assure the Poinetto State passing Rhode Island in 180, and taking her place next to the Bay State in cotton manufacturing.

facturing.

It is notable that both in 1809 and 1809 the increase in the capital of established mills was large. They were in-almost every instance made to build additions or en ery instance made to build additions or entirely new mills adjoining the old ones. Of the fourteen mills to increase their capital the past year, one was for $50,699, another for $70,000, the other twelve for $100,000 or more. The most notable increase was in the Lancaster mill, which had a capital of $150,000 and increased it to $1,000,000.

The extensions are made to almost all old mills out of the surplus. No additional stock is issued, and the stockholders pay out nothing. While "foreign" capital is largely invested in South Carolina mills, it is not as much a necessity to the starting of an enterprise as it was a few years ago, nor is it hard to get. The natives are much more largely interested in mills recently built and chartered than they were in the older enterprises.
